A group of American millionaires and property developers has mounted a far-reaching plot to take over the small island of Abaco in the Bahamas. the Daily Mail said yesterday.

The paper said that the group, led by arms merchant Mitchell Werbell is exerting strong psychological pressure on the 7000 inhabitants of the island to break away from the Bahamas and become an independent state.

A number of United States Central Intelligence Agency agents were said to be among the groups' executive committee which has its headquarters in Miami.
